

DID YOU KNOW

The increase in book bans is attributed to national groups, such as Moms for Liberty, that publish lists to parents who then take their challenges to local schools. In many cases the parents have not read or seen the books they are challenging. And often it's only one or two parents bringing the challenge.

